

Ana Maria Castro Trujillo

Profile

I am a woman focused on continuously improving my knowledge and experiences. I am skilled at listening, learning, and communicating my ideas. I have work experience in customer service, and my goal is to provide customers with well-being and added value through the products they acquire, meet customer expectations, and generate in them a sense of belonging to the brand I represent. Currently, I am a student of Software Engineering Technology, and I am seeking the opportunity to work and gain work experience to continue paying for my studies and ease the financial burden on my family. At the same time, I aim to achieve financial independence and develop skills that allow me to improve both professionally and personally.

My main strength is resilience; I don't give up. I am an authentic, honest, responsible, and punctual person with a strong ability to adapt to change and a skill for helping people achieve their goals. I am customer-oriented and results-driven, with good interpersonal skills for communication and teamwork.
